Charges pending in animal cruelty case

Baler twine embedded in dog's neck removed

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

A person who abandoned their pet dog at a Pearl Street residence may be facing animal cruelty charges after the dog was examined by veterinarians on Monday afternoon.

Harrison County Animal Control Officer Allen Fryman, accompanied by his assistant, Erin Gaunce, responded to an animal removal call at 306 W. Pearl St. on Monday morning.

According to Fryman, the removal request had arisen from a domestic dispute at the residence. As a precaution, animal control contacted the Cynthiana Police Department to request an officer meet them in case there were complications between the home owner and the owner of the dog, Fryman said.

Marcus Gross, the dog's owner, was reported by his former girlfriend to have left the residence permanently the previous day and, in the process, had abandoned the dog.

The dog, according to officers, belonged exclusively to Gross. He was the only person who provided care and feeding to the Pit Bull Terrier. When he left, his girlfriend, who owns the house, said that she did not want to take over ownership of the dog.

When control officers arrived at the residence accompanied by Sgt. Det. Allen Judy, they found the dog, a black and white Pit Bull mix, tightly tied to a fence in the backyard with nylon blue baler twine being used as a leash.

The baler twine was wound so tightly around the dog's neck, Fryman said, that it had created a serious abrasion beneath the animal's fur.

"There were places where I had to cut the twine away from the skin to get it off," Fryman ABUSED DOG — "Cutie", a pit bull terrier mix, was found abandoned at a Pearl Street residence with scars from a baler twine leash wearing sores into the dog's neck. Harrison County Animal Control Officer Allen Fryman took the dog to Harrison Veterinary Hospital for treatment. The wound around its neck was treated. The dog was also suffering from severe malnutrition.

Many federal, state, local races will have opposition

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

It may be cold outside but the election is getting ready to heat things up in Harrison County.

A redistricting last year split Harrison County as far as U.S. Congress representation is concerned. A portion of the county is in the 4th Congressional District, currently represented by Thomas Massie, Garrison, Ky., (R) and who will be challenged by Peter Newberry, Berry, Ky., (D).

The 6th Congressional District is represented by Andy Barr, Lexington, (R). He will face off against Elisabeth Jensen, Lexington, (D), and Geoffrey Young, Lexington, (D).

In the 78th District Kentucky House of Representatives, incumbent Thomas McKee (D) Cynthiana will be challenged by Falmouth mayor Mark Hart, (R).

However, in the 18th Judicial Circuit for Family Court

Judge, four candidates have filed.

Joining incumbent Barbara Paul, Falmouth, on the ballot will be Sam W. Arnold III, Cynthiana, Heather Fryman, Cynthiana, and Eric Tedder, Carlisle.

Also unopposed will be Charles W. Kuster Jr. for the 18th Judicial District seat.

On the local level, only a handful of candidates will be unopposed in the upcoming elections.

ELECTION 2014

Commissioner Brunker files as candidate for Cynthiana mayor

Gary Brunker began his state government career as a Hearing Officer for Kentucky's Division of Driver Licensing in 1976. During that time, he served in various supervisory roles culminating in his being appointed Director of the Division.

Subsequently, Brunker held a position for 10 years with the Kentucky State Police as a grants and contract administrator and personnel manager. He also served as assistant director of grants management within the Justice Cabinet at a time when the Federal Crime Bill was being implemented.

Brunker retired from his position with state government as executive director of personnel services and as special assistant to the cabinet secretary of the Cabinet for Workforce Development in 2000.

During this time, he represented the cabinet secretary on the Economic Development Cabinet's Enterprise Zone Board.

Brunker began his second stint as director of the Division of Driver Licensing in March 2002. During this time, he also served as vice chairman of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators' (AAMVA) Uniform Identification Subcommittee, which looked at various ways of improving the security and integrity of identification documents.

Brunker is a chief/certified trainer in fraudulent document recognition.

He also is a contractor for the Southern Police Institute at the University of Louisville where he coordinated the Kentucky State Police Promotion Process.

In addition, Brunker teaches human resources issues to law enforcement officers attending command officer development classes.

Brunker holds a bachelor of science degree from Eastern Kentucky University and a masters degree in public administration from Kentucky State University.

In addition, Brunker is an elder and trustee of the Cynthiana Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). He is also a member of the hand bell choir.

He also serves as a director of the Harrison County Education Foundation and is a volunteer driver for God's Pantry Food Bank.

He is a lifelong resident of Cynthiana. His wife Cathy is a retired registered nurse from the WEDCO District Health Department.

In 2001, Brunker was appointed a city commissioner to fill a vacancy. He oversaw the water plant and the waste water treatment plant until he returned to full time employment with state government.

For the last 3-plus years, he has served the citizens of Cynthiana as Commissioner of Public Safety.

Gary Brunker

He said that in that role, he has successfully improved the condition of vehicles in both the fire and police departments.

He said he has secured budget funds to improve the technology in both departments. Brunker was also successful in getting the full city commission to approve tax incentives for new business locating in the industrial/business park.

Brunker believes that his education and vast experiences in supervisory, management and executive positions will benefit all residents of Cynthiana.

Penick to run for Berry commission

Phyllis Penick has filed the necessary papers to become a candidate for one of four seats on the Berry City Commission.

Penick was manager for Stanley Home Products for 11 years. She then became a realtor and auctioneer for 33 years with Action Realty. She had the distinction of being the first woman to auctioneer in Harrison County.

She was president of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Board of Realtors several different years.

Barnett seeks re-election as county judge

Alex Barnett has filed for re-election as Harrison County Judge Executive. Barnett has served Harrison County for two terms as judge-executive.

Barnett said that during his tenure, he has a record of working with the fiscal court to make county government more effective and efficient.

He said the Harrison County road system has seen major improvements over the past seven years.

"We have replaced 21 bridges and currently have plans to replace four more," Barnett said. "We resurface approximately 40 miles of road each year and have eliminated almost all gravel roads. Recently, we have completed major safety projects on Davis Lane and Nebo Road."

Barnett said the Flora Shropshire Animal Shelter has also undergone many improvements during his tenure.

"With the help of rescues, over 80 percent of the animals that come through the shelter find happy and loving homes," Barnett said. "When I came into office, less than 20 percent found homes."

Barnett said he and the fiscal court are now looking forward to the upcoming courthouse renovation project.

"Upon completion of the renovation, plans are to move the offices of the Harrison County Clerk and Harrison County Property Valuation Administration to the first floor of the courthouse," Barnett said. "We have made these and many more improvements without any tax increases."

Barnett serves on numerous boards and commissions. He currently serves as treasurer of the Kentucky County Judges Association, board of directors for both Kentucky Association of Counties and the Bluegrass Area Development District, state director for Kentucky Farm Bureau, and was appointed by the governor to the Equine Health and Welfare Council.

He is a member of Cynthiana Rotary, Cynthiana Elks Lodge, Harrison County Beef Cattle Association and the Soldier Support Group, among others.

Barnett said he is proud of his work with the Champions for a Drug Free Harrison County as it strives to reduce the county's growing drug problem.

Barnett is a lifelong resident of Harrison County and graduated from Harrison County High School in 1986.

He attended Cornell University where he played football and graduated with a degree in farm management and finance.

Upon graduation, he returned home to the family farm where he continues to reside and work today.

Okay winter, you can go now

I decided this week that my heavy coat -- the one I rarely wear, because, well... because let's say I seldom get cold -- needs to be laundered.

However, with this winter's weather, I dare not give it a good soaking for fear that I may need it before the heavy fluff has time to dry.

I've never been a big fan of cold weather. I could use stronger words, such as hate and detest, or loathe and abhor, but you already get my "drift."

As a child, I tolerated the cold because I liked the sledding and snowball fights; mostly the sledding.

I'm too old for sledding with any real enthusiasm. I can still sit on a disc and whirl down the front hill for the granddaughter, but an extended time in the snow only makes me yearn for the hot chocolate and roaring fire.

At least that is what always followed a few hours of sledding in my youth.

I'm tired of my gray car looking like it was parked under a salt drip.

I have worn my fleece-lined snow boots more for warmth than actually tromping through snow. However, there have been way more of those snow days than I prefer, too.

Add to this year's winter many days

.... And let the door hit you on the way out

Becky Barnes
Editor

under a wind advisory and you have the making of an even greater detestation of what 2014 has offered.

Winter, please go away.

I know you are no more likely to listen to me than my dog, but, Winter, you are no longer welcome.

I suppose if I have to think of positives, I'll first give credit for the possible deaths of some loathsome summer pests.

And, my granddaughter would delight in the piles and piles of sparkling fairy dust on the highways.

A real positive has been the way our road crews have worked hours and hours and hours to keep the roads passable.

Every year I try to throw out kudos to these guys who are clearing while we're sleeping. They make it a little easier to make it to work and home.

They drive where you can barely tell the path of the road.

Also this year is the warming shelter set up at the old courthouse. How grateful these people must be to know that they can get out of the weather. It doesn't matter if you are homeless or if your home simply doesn't heat well, you are welcome at the Red Cross shelter.

Harrison County's judge-executive and his staff have vacated the old building for its renovation. It's a natural fit for a shelter until the work begins.

Hmmm. Other than those few positives, Winter, go away.

Resident responds to thieves who robbed her home

To the editor:

Happy New Year to the thieves that came into our home on Nov. 5, 2013, and took one locked gun safe, which contained seven guns, a large amount of money, and other items. It had to have taken two people to carry it out. You also took a 32-inch, flat-screen television and a floor safe that was locked and hidden in the back of my closet. The safe contained personal items, some that were sentimental, such as my father's pocket watch.

We know how you got into our home. We know who you are. Be assured a lot of eyes are upon you, including the law. Everywhere you go someone will be looking at you. We have told a lot of people.

Just wanted you to know and someday, you and your helpers will get your reward. "Thou shall not steal."

Local woman thanks the many good people of Cynthiana

To the editor:

I would like to say that there are so many good people in the Cynthiana and everywhere else.

One day I went to Walmart and lost my coupon. A lady came over, looked at me as though she thought I was lost or something was wrong. I told her that I had lost a coupon. She helped me look everywhere for it.

That's just one incident. Things like that happen to me all the time.

On another occasion, I had a basket load of groceries. It looked like I had a hard time pushing the cart. A woman kindly asked me if I needed help. See how so many people are good hearted.

I just say "hi" to people and they say "hi" back, and wave and smile.

Thank you so very much.

Senate reconvenes after Martin Luther King Jr. Day

Walter Blevins Jr.
Guest Writer

After a pause in legislative work last Monday to honor the life and legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Senate reconvened Tuesday in a joint session with the House to hear the governor's budget proposal.

Determining the state's two-year budget is the most daunting, time-consuming task we undertake in the legislature.

As you can imagine, getting a majority of 138 lawmakers -- who represent varied ideologies and communities across the state -- to agree on any bill is hard. It was never meant to be effortless.

Our government and the legislative process were designed so that every person has a voice and only the best bills become law. A measure with the complexity and consequences of the budget bill makes that process even more involved.

Tuesday night's speech was a first step.

The governor's plan, which focused largely on increased spending for education and training efforts, is now in the hands of House budget subcommittees.

There, line item details are being hammered out for billions of dollars of revenues and expenditures.

In the coming weeks, the bill will move through the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee and then to the full House for that chamber's stamp of approval.

That's when we'll have a chance to put our mark on it here in the Senate. Then conferees will meet to settle differences between the House and Senate plans.

It is much more than a matter of mathematics. Getting the numbers to add up is easy. The hard part is reconciling the differences in priorities, principles and philosophies among lawmakers.

We do not always agree on which programs and services to cut or invest in. And we have to work toward a consensus on the most fiscally responsible way to move our state forward.

It will most likely take nearly every one of our remaining working days -- and many late nights and weekends between -- for the plan to make it back to the governor's desk to become law.

For now though, many other bills are getting their turn on the Senate floor.

Senate Bill 4, called the Legislative Pension Reciprocity Repeal, would permit lawmakers to make a one-time irrevocable declaration opting out of the higher-paying pension calculation.

Senate Bill 27, passed 25-12, would amend the state Constitution to move the four-year election cycle of the state's constitutional offices.

Currently those offices are up for election in 2015. This measure would move the elections up to 2016, matching the current presidential election cycle.

The bill's sponsor said the change would save the state $3.5 million. If approved by the full General Assembly, the question would be posed to voters on the November ballot this year for final ratification.

These bills are now in the House for their consideration.

We also heard more news from the governor on Wednesday when he announced in a joint press conference with U.S. Congressman Hal Rogers the expansion of high-speed broadband internet statewide.

High-speed internet has become a necessary tool to compete in today's global economy, and 23 percent of Kentuckians currently do not have access to reliable broadband. That will change with a state and federal investment building nearly 3,000 miles of fiber infrastructure to connect Kentucky to the world. The project will start in Eastern Kentucky.

This will remove barriers to students and adults across the state to education, training, health care and career opportunities and benefit the state for years to come.

In today's rapidly changing world, Kentucky needs to keep up. With this program, we will not only keep up, but move ahead.

I was proud to stand alongside the governor, Congressman Rogers and other state leaders as this new venture was announced.

We will consider many more before final adjournment on April 15.

I encourage you to stay informed and stay involved with the legislative process and the bills we take up.

Let me know your thoughts and concerns about the budget or any other legislative issues we're considering.

To do my job well, I need to hear from you.

To leave a message for me, or any legislator, call the General Assembly's toll-free Message Line at 1-800-372-7181. I read every green slip that comes to my desk.

Citizens are always welcome to watch our committee meetings and floor proceedings. If you can't make the trip to Frankfort, you can access live and archived legislative activity streaming online at www.ket.org.

City still has plenty of salt, says commissioner

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

In a time when many cities and counties are running out of road salt, Cynthiana is in good shape.

"We still have 80 tons of salt on hand," said Roger Slade, commissioner of public works. "I want to commend the guys on their work."

Slade said he had received a few complaints regarding snow removal. However, he said in those instances, trucks were unable to get down the streets with removal equipment because cars were parked on the roadway.

In other business, the commissioner:

- Moved the effective hire date for two police officer recruits from Feb. 9 to March 16.

Safety commissioner Gary Brunker said the February enrollment for the police academy was already full. Recruits Lewis E. Crump III and Justin E. Jett will begin studies on March 16.

Brunker also thanked fellow commissioners for allowing the police department to build its force from 16 officers to 17.

Another recruit will graduate from the academy in May. Crump and Jett will finish in July.

- Heard Billy Grayson, commissioner of public property and finance, report that the new Main Street Program director, Emily Ammerman, has settled into her position.

"I'm real pleased with the way things are going," Grayson said.

The commission approved a $650 expenditure for Ammerman to set up a new website, purchase business cards and build a logo.

- Approved a lease agreement for a copier to be used in the basement of the police department.

- Heard Slade report that Columbia Gas created the 22 holes in Wilson Avenue that Grayson questioned at last month's meeting.

Slade said the work by Columbia Gas was done late in the season and the repairs had not had time to settle. He said the company will return as soon as warm weather returns.

- Heard Commissioner Jack Keith commend the men of the Public Utilities department.

"We have had a number of water breaks and will probably have some more," Keith said. "These men are ankle or waist deep in water in these conditions. Their work is admirable."

- Met in executive session to reconvene the deliberation on a grievance filed against an individual employee.

A number of police officers had filed a grievance against Chief Ray Johnson last spring citing "no confidence."

A closed hearing was held Monday. Deliberations began Monday evening and continued Tuesday evening. A third day of deliberations is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

Sen. Rand Paul (R) was in Cynthiana last Thursday afternoon. He met with some of his constituents at the Harrison County Health Center.

On Friday, U.S. Reps. Thomas Massie and Andy Barr visited with Harrison County residents at Bianca's at noon. Harrison County was split in last year's redistricting. Barr represents the 6th District and Massie represents the 4th District.

Police grievance hearing/deliberations enter third day

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

A grievance filed in late May 2013 has been heard by members of the Cynthiana City Commission. The commission has deliberated over two days with more talks set for Wednesday at 5 p.m.

Nine police officers and two former officers signed a petition stating "no confidence" in the leadership of Cynthiana Police Chief Ray Johnson.

Johnson, who joined the Cynthiana force in 1991 as an auxiliary officer, was named chief in 2008.

He was last year's recipient of the first Public Safety Award from the Chamber of Commerce.

After the grievance was filed, Safety Commissioner Gary Brunker called for an assessment of the police department through the Southern Police Institute at the University of Louisville.

The institute's representatives identified a number of areas for improvement in their final report released last October.

"A date should be scheduled to begin resolve of the pending formal grievance at the earliest opportunity," states assessors in their report. "Issues contained in the grievance seem to be stifling the entire operation of the Cynthiana Police Department."

The results of the assessment are available at www.cynthianademocrat.com.

The formal hearing began Monday morning at 9 a.m.

Commissioners closed the hearing at the request of Johnson and his attorney, Jim Thomas.

The officers are represented by the Fraternal Order of Police attorney,

Cruelty

From CRUELTY, front said.

Officers released the dog from its leash and transported it to Harrison County Veterinary Clinic where Dr. Christina Wells treated its injuries.

Judging from the injury around the dog's neck, Wells said that the twine would have had to be digging into the dog's neck for months. She noted places where the dog's skin had tried to grow over the twine.

The dog, whom officers and vet personnel began calling "Cutie," also showed signs of severe hunger and malnourishment.

Under the circumstances, Fryman said it was surprising that the dog offered no resistance to any of its handlers. The dog remained docile, even friendly, with everyone involved in its care.

Judy filed a complaint with the Harrison County attorney's office requesting animal cruelty charges be levied against Gross pursuant to his alleged mistreatment of the dog.

Cynthiana police officers listen as the commission prepares to close the hearing.

David Fuller.

The hearing continued until Monday evening. Following the hearing, the commission convened in executive session to begin deliberations. Those discussions were recessed Monday night and reconvened following Tuesday's regular commission meeting. Following an hour and half closed session, Mayor Steve Moses announced that deliberations would reconvene at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Project Linus celebrates 5th anniversary

Make-a-Blanket Day planned for Feb. 15

Over five years, one group of Central Kentucky quilters has helped more than 3,000 children and families heal with a simple hand-made gift. The North Central Kentucky Chapter of Project Linus was founded in 2009 by Georgetown resident Janet Walter. The chapter includes “blanketeers” from Scott, Harrison, Pendleton, Nicholas, Bourbon and Robertson counties and, as of mid-January, has provided 3,159 blankets, quilts and afghans to children dealing with illnesses and traumatic life events.

Among the children and families helped by the chapter are those from Scott, Woodford and Bourbon counties who’ve passed through the local family court of Judge Tamara Gormley, who gives the blankets to newly adopted children.

To help celebrate five years and to continue serving our children, the North Central Kentucky Chapter of Project Linus invites area quilters to its Make-A-Blanket Day from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 15 at the First United Methodist Church, 1280 Lexington Road, Georgetown. A national organization based in Bloomington, Ill., Project Linus draws on the inspiration of the Charles Schulz character Linus, who is comforted through his trials by his blanket.

Once made by volunteers, the blankets are distributed through hospitals, health departments, judicial agen-

No more half-day classes built into school calendar, says KDE

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

The Kentucky Department of Education is eliminating half-day school days from all district school calendars beginning with the 2014-15 school year, Lloyd Ogden, Harrison County director of Pupil Personnel, said during the January meeting of the Harrison County School Board Tuesday night.

The announcement came after Ogden and Assistant Superintendent David Case thought that they had completed work on the 2014-15 school calendar.

According to Harrison County School Superintendent Andy Dotson, the proposed calendar was on his desk when Terry Holliday, Ph.D., the Kentucky Commissioner of Education, announced the elimination of school half-days in a state-wide Kentucky Department of Education webinar last week.

For Harrison County, the change only means that the last day of school before the Christmas holiday and the last day of school for the year will be a full school day, Ogden said.

The change may also have a slight impact on the current school calendar as well.

“The last day of school in this calendar year will probably be a full day instead of a half day,” Ogden said.

“It is a state law that schools have a minimum of 170 instructional days or 1,062 hours of instruction every school year. We have scheduled 174,” Dotson said.

“However, the state is now saying that those days must be six-hour days.”

The requirement is not likely to have a severe impact on Harrison County’s upcoming schedule, Case said. Unlike other districts that have incorporated early release days for students into their schedule to allow for teacher and administrative training and continuing education programs, Harrison County eliminated that practice a few years ago, Case said.

“In a survey, we found that early release days were not popular among parents and staff members, so we took them out of the schedule,” Case said.

Though some tweaks need to be made to comply with the state, the board did give approval for the tentative 2014-15 school calendar. The schedule calls for the first days of classes to begin on Aug. 11, fall break to happen from Oct. 13-17, and the last day of school next year to fall on May 22.

Amy Coleman, principal of Harrison County High School, was invited to provide a site-based council report on the high school.

The overall report on the high school’s academic accomplishments were glowing, Coleman said. As has been previously reported, the high school achieved a Proficient classification from the last round of Kentucky Performance Rating for Educational Progress (K-PREP) tests.

School ACT scores improved across the board from last year and met or exceeded state scoring averages in all categories except English.

Furthermore, 116 high school students passed AP exams, an improvement over last year by 75 students. Coleman said that 139 students had an AP score of 2, which just narrowly missed being a passing score and indicated they would do well in whatever college or career they chose.

Last year, high school graduation rates were already commendable at 85 percent. But 2013, Harrison County took that percentage way up to 90.7 percent, almost five percentage points better than the state average.

Board member Ed Taylor commented that he thought the high school Learning Center and its programs designed specifically to work with borderline students could account for the dramatic increase in graduation rates. Coleman agreed.

Reading was one of the few areas in which the high school failed to meet its benchmark, Coleman said.

Harrison’s achievement score of 49.6 in reading was well below the state average of 61. It was the one category where the percentage of students ranking at the novice level, 44.8, dwarfed the percentage scoring at the proficient level.

“We are taking steps to improve our reading scores. We are delivering reading strategies in our homeroom to help improve reading and writing-on-demand skills,” Coleman said.

Teachers are also “embedding ACT prep materials in student coursework,” she said.

In other business, the school board:

- Approved the appointment of Kristy Carey as board chair, Ed Taylor as board vice-chair, Andy Dotson as board treasurer, Dana Waits as board secretary, and Don Ruberg as board attorney.
- Approved adding Dr. Don Stephens to the Harrison County Schools’ Wall of Distinction, commemorating his decades of service to Harrison County’s young people.
- Approved field trips for Harrison County’s Middle School FFA to Perfect North Slopes on Feb. 21 and to the state FFA convention in June.
- Approved the draft budget for 2014-15 and continuing to hire White and Associates, PSC as the school system auditor.

Julie Asher, Harrison County school finance director, said that the board may want to consider bidding for a new auditor in upcoming years.

“It’s a good practice to put a new set of eyes on the books every few years,” she said.

However, she and Dotson also praised the work that White and Associates have done for Harrison County.

- Approved Asher’s recommendation to accept the School Facilities Construction Commission’s (SFCC) offer of $42,837 on a possible future bond sale. To qualify, the school would have to escrow $73,130 in the Capital Outlay Fund and $103,129 in the Building Fund.

Taylor added his voice to Asher’s in recommending that the school board approve this measure.

“All our elementary school buildings are over 50 years old. They are still in good condition, but the time is coming when Harrison County is going to have to do something major with them. So it’s best to start saving toward that time,” Taylor said.

- Approved the suggested restructuring of school activity funds from the school to the district.
- Approved a request from teachers Debbie Kendall and Melissa Miles to apply for Read to Achieve grants for all district elementary schools.
- Approved the board to attend the annual Kentucky School Board Association’ annual conference in Louisville from Jan. 31 - Feb. 2.
- Approved Jenny Lynn Hatter’s request to apply for a Toyota Foundation grant in association with Hatim Omar, MD and Shawn Sorrell, MD of the UK Healthcare’s Department of Adolescent Medicine.

The grant, entitled “Healthy Teens Developing a Beautiful Mind” would allow physicians to come twice a month to Harrison County Schools and meet with students for counseling.

- Dotson and the school board expressed its gratitude to Gary Lizer for his leadership as board chair these last two years. Lizer ended his term as board chair last December.

Chamber nominations still being accepted

The awards banquet is always an exciting time for our community and this year is no different.

On March 4, 2014, at the Extension Office, the Cynthiana-Harrison County Chamber of Commerce will be celebrating 44 years of recognizing outstanding members of the community.

The Chamber is still asking members of the community to nominate someone who has shown outstanding characteristics in the category of either: Business, Educator, Farmer, Citizen, Volunteer, Healthcare, or Public Safety.

The deadline for these nominations is Feb. 7. Letters may be mailed to the Chamber office at 201 S. Main St., Cynthiana; emailed to cynchamber@setel.com; filled out on facebook or submitted through the Chamber website www.cynthianakychamber.com

This year, the Chamber will try a new approach with its winners. Once the winners are selected from the nominations, they will be notified along with their nominator so that they may invite all those who would like to attend to the banquet. Call the Chamber office at 234-5236 for more information.

School officials prepare for last day of school to be in June

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

If Harrison County Schools miss no more days this winter due to weather, the last day of the 2013-2014 school year will be June 5, according to Lloyd Ogden, director of Pupil Personnel. However, he noted that the winter is not over yet.

To make up for unscheduled cancellations this January, school will be in session for President’s Day, Ogden announced. A scheduled teacher’s workday on March 28 has also been made a full school day as well, he added.

So far, there are no changes to spring break scheduled for April 7 - 11, but that week is eligible as a time to make up for missed days this winter.

Before making these amendments to the calendar, the last day of school was originally scheduled for May 21.

Despite the number of school days being missed this winter, there are some days where state law mandates school closings, said Harrison County School Superintendent

Andy Dotson.

Dotson said that the central office had received questions about why schools observed the Martin Luther King Jr. Day holiday.

“The state has an expectation that every school and university in Kentucky be closed in observance of that important day,” Dotson said. Schools are also required by law to be closed on election days, Dotson said, and therefore cannot be used as a make-up time for snow days.

With February and early March still to go, the school administration is adopting a wait-and-see attitude regarding the remainder of this school year.

Ogden was asked what the worst-case scenario would be for a school year. In an absolute worst possible case scenario, Ogden said that schools could be open all the way to June 30. However, it is highly unlikely for that scenario to occur.

To celebrate our 20th anniversary, the volunteers of the Humane Society of Harrison County would like to thank everyone who has supported us over the years. With your donations we have been able to help the animal shelter and the animals of Harrison County.

Our success comes from you. We are a non-profit volunteer organization, we are not funded by the county or a national organization. Money that we raise locally stays in Harrison County to help our animals.

Your generosity has allowed us to spend over $50,000 improving the shelter to build important things such as the puppy room, the cat room, and the exercise yard and to purchase little things to improve the animals’ quality of life such as beds, cages, gates, food, litter, medicine and vaccines. In addition we have contributed $2400 toward transportation costs of sending dogs to rescue.

The most important way to control the animal population and to keep the shelter from over crowding is through spay and neuter. This is why we have spent more than $150,000 over 20 years to spay and neuter thousands of your pets.

Thank you so much for your support and allowing us to help the animals in Harrison County!

Recreation department to review job descriptions

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

The Cynthiana-Harrison County Parks and Recreation Board have decided to leave the position of deputy director vacant for time being as they reevaluate the language of its job description that was developed over a year ago.

During the board's regular monthly meeting last Monday, Parks and Recreation Director Darrell Baxter said that he perceived that there was too much of an overlap between the director and deputy director positions as they were originally conceived.

"I'm not sure that our Parks and Recreation department is developed enough to justify two full-time director positions," Baxter said. "We're not the same size as a Scott County, for example."

Board member and county magistrate Frank Henson said that re-inventing Parks and Recreation over a year ago with city commissioners was a difficult process because there were few blueprints to follow.

"We always figured the organization would change as we moved forward," he said.

Baxter had suggestions for making updates that would make the position more a hands-on park facility management position. He felt, though, that the position should remain full time.

Because of questions concerning the process of changing job description language, the board members suggested Baxter bring his ideas to the attention of Harrison County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett and County Attorney Bradley Vaughn.

Board members from the Cynthiana City Commission were also unable to attend the Parks and Recreation meeting due to a time conflict with a closed commission meeting.

"We should let them provide some input," Robbie VanHook suggested.

Grant for pond improvements at Veterans Park gets complicated.

One of two grants submitted to make improvements to the pond on the edge of Flat Run Veterans Park received state funding for this year through March of 2015.

The grant is supposed to be used for the installation of walking paths, trails and bridges around the pond.

However, a second grant requesting that the pond be dredged, cleaned and organized as an educational fishing pond for children did not receive funding, Baxter said.

Having one grant funded without the other has created a somewhat difficult situation for the department, Baxter said.

"The idea was to use trails and bridges as a site improvement to a pond that has been renovated for recreational fishing. But if we can't do anything with the pond because of EPA regulations, then putting in all these accents to make the experience around it nicer doesn't make a lot of sense," Baxter said.

Nevertheless, he also said that grant money shouldn't be wasted. The department is looking into other approved ways to use the grant money.

In other business:

- Board members complimented Baxter on his efforts to keep the city hall gymnasium open through the winter. The gym has only been closed twice in January due to adverse weather conditions.

Baxter noted that the gym has been in heavy use through December and January.

- Volleyball will begin on Sunday, Feb. 2. Eight teams have formed, Baxter said.
- Middle school basketball is running well with five teams and an excellent group of volunteer coaches, Baxter said.
- Sign-ups for spring sports will run from Feb. 1 - March 1.
- Little League baseball tryouts are scheduled for March 8.
- Baxter is gathering information to develop an indoor soccer league at city hall gym. It won't happen this year, he said, but he hopes to have the details worked out by this time next year.

- Baxter is also hoping to develop interest in regional Pony League baseball with possible teams competing from Nicholas, Harrison, Bracken and Fleming counties, among others.
- Parks and Recreation is also interested in establishing a youth football program and more participation in a girls' softball league.
- Those who would like to volunteer are encouraged to contact Baxter at the Parks and Recreation office for more information.

Will the poplar vortex hurt insects or kill pesky ticks?

Will the polar vortex hurt invasive insects or kill pesky ticks?

A few weeks ago on Ira Flatow's Science Friday there was an interview with research biologist Rob Venette from the U.S. Forest Service in Minnesota that addressed the effect temperature has on certain insects.

Jeneen Wiche
Columnist
www.SwallowTailFarm.com

with the emerald ash borer we have not seen actual air temperatures that low and the wind chill only makes it less bearable for us not the cold blooded insect in hibernation or diapause.

The thrifty tick, after finding a winter haven underneath some warm leaf debris, can slow their functions down so a minimal amount of energy is needed to maintain bodily functions during hibernation.

Venette explained that ticks begin to freeze at 7 to 14° F, depending on the species, but they can offset this vulnerability by seeking refuge under leaf debris that can naturally maintain a near 28° F.

Think about all those insects that lurk under the wood pile as they seek shelter from the vortex.

So, the "silver-lining" of the Polar Vortex, if there is one, is that it may slow the progress of the emerald ash borer in the northern hinterlands; and it may snagged few ticks in Kentuckiana.

The good news, according to Venette, is that beneficial insects usually fare well in the cold as they have other mechanisms to survive.

Honey bees, for example, will shiver to radiate heat as they huddle around their queen. Apparently a healthy colony can warm the hive to 90° F. Amazing.

Some insects are considered "freeze tolerant," which is actualized through a process called diapause.

Insects that practice diapause completely shut down during the winter. Like some spring bulbs, they also have to go through a period of dormancy triggered by cold temperatures before they can actually awaken again once spring arrives.

This survival mechanism, then, would only work for insects that live in certain climates.

Insects need to find appropriate protection for the winter, wherever that may be, but in order to survive around here they still need to lower the water content of their little insect bodies.

Purdue entomologist, Tom Turpin explains, "Winterizing for an insect is much like the process we go through to winterize a car. We add anti-freeze to the car. Insects add anti-freeze to themselves. If the liquid in the cooling system of a motor is allowed to freeze, the expansion during the process will break the radiator and hoses. The same is true of the liquid in insects. If it is allowed to freeze, the crystals that form will destroy the cells and tissues of the insect and cause death."

In fact, the compounds that make up car anti-freeze and insect anti-freeze are very similar.

Automobile anti-freeze has glycol in it; insect anti-freeze has glycerol. The compound effectively drops the freezing point of the liquid.

This means that the insects little system is shut down for the winter with low moisture content so it won't burst like a frozen pipe.

Once an insect has converted its liquid to glycerol it can withstand temperatures below freezing but severe winters may still see a higher insect mortality rate. We shall see.

SALEM CHURCH OF CHRIST

A few years ago, some neighbors were talking loudly on the street as I worked in my yard and another neighbor's young children played in theirs. The conversation was not profound, but profane. I called my neighbors' attention to the young children and the failure of their English teachers to expand their vocabulary. Gratefully they apologized and took their conversations inside.

A current movie with an A-list cast is recognized for its use of one singular profane word; over 500 uses in a 3-hour showing.

Sailors can talk salty; but I was never subjected to such a barrage in 26-years of military service; yet it is thought I should be in the pursuit of entertainment.

It is said our society is losing its civility. We no longer enjoy the customs of courtesy. Simple etiquette has been excised from our culture. Certain words and expressions are embedded in everyday language, and no one is safe from them.

While speaking to the Pharisees, Jesus said "The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in him." He then proceeds to say,

"...men will have to give account on the day of judgment for EVERY CARELESS WORD they have spoken." (Matthew 12:35-36)

It is said a man uses 20,000 words-a-day and a woman twice that. Jokes aside, that means we utter one-half billion words in adulthood.

Can you imagine how unfathomable it will be to account for our speech – let alone our actions?

Have you ever uttered some disgust toward the person in the express check-out with too many items? Have you ever cursed in pain? Screamed in frustration? Yelled at the innocent? Joked at those who were different?

Have you ever shouted at children in anger? Said an unkind word or demeaned someone? Spoke impolitely or rashly?

It is no wonder James writes, "The tongue also is a fire... It corrupts the whole person." (James 3:6).

Christians are called to be separate from the world. This isn't to say we are to be cloistered away from the world, although some have chosen that path. It means we are to live by a different decorum – a decorum that recognizes and mimics the qualities of a loving, righteous and holy God.

How would our speech change if we saw God in every face, saw each person as the created image of God and if every word spoken brought only praise and glory to the God of our salvation?

The dilemmas of a commitment

GRACE NOTES

Even if you haven't heard of a commitment device, chances are you've used one.

Basically, it's a clever means, either a punishment or a reward, to help you commit to something that you know will be difficult.

Anyone who has ever been on a diet uses them: When I lose 10 pounds I'll treat myself to a new pair of shoes — or a hot fudge sundae.

Years ago, a Missouri man named Tony Balandran decided his gambling addiction was out of control so he chose as his commitment device a state-run program that gave the state his consent to be legally prosecuted for criminal trespassing if he ever went to a casino.

It worked—until he discovered a loophole. Since the casinos didn't require people to show their IDs, no one knew he was on the "banned from casinos" list.

Everything was going well for him until he was dealt a seven-card straight flush in a pai gow game and suddenly his $5 bet was worth $3,750. However, his winning meant he had to show his ID, which meant the cops were called.

Balandran was charged with criminal trespassing, he had to pay a fine and the casino got to keep the winnings.

Another guy, Adam Scott from Ontario, after realizing what a shlub he was, decided to commit himself to a "life of health and virtue" and made a list of 42 things he would give up for 30 days.

He called it his "cold turkey" list and recorded his progress in a series of YouTube videos, "Cold Turkey Diaries." His commitment device was a check for $750 made out to Oprah Winfrey, the last person on earth he wanted to give money to.

The YouTube videos, making his experiment public, added to his resolve. Halfway into his process he told an NPR reporter, "It's working. The combination of guilt and fear of getting caught is effective so far."

But on day 21 he accidentally put 2 percent milk in his coffee — the milk, not the coffee was on his no-no list — thereby breaking his commitment.

He immediately called his friend Scooby as an impartial referee. Scooby said since it was by mistake and not intentional it didn't count. Still, it ate at Scott. Even though he completed the rest of his 30 days with flawless obedience, that tiny bit of 2% milk stained his record.

Even though Scooby had absolved him, Scott went ahead and sent Oprah the $750 with a letter explaining the reason for it. He wrote, "I throw myself on the mercy of the Oprah and ask only that you adjudicate this matter fairly. Tonight I will sleep guilt-free."

Oprah has never cashed the check, Scott told the NPR reporter.

To me, these stories could be about how we approach God, either trying to find loopholes and ways to not get caught, or agonizing over minor, even accidental, slip ups. I know of people, and have been one of them, to be guilty of both.

Even though I know better, I find myself going into what I call "penance mode," confessing and re-confessing decades-old sins, thinking of ways to be better spiritually and assigning myself rewards/punishments if I succeed/fail.

And I always fail.

Not only that, not even the best commitment device I or any of us can concoct can make me (or you) right with God to begin with or more right once we are his.

You've heard the saying "To err is human, to forgive divine." Because we're human, we err. Because God is God, he forgives.

Like Adam Scott, no matter how diligent I may be, there's always that bit of 2 percent milk to spoil the record.

Besides, like Tony Balandran, I'm usually looking for loopholes, ways to not confront my innate sinful self.

What we need is a commitment device that works—and God has one for us: "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us" (Titus 3:5).

We throw ourselves on the mercy of God, and through faith in Jesus he adjudicates the matter fairly (to quote Adam Scott in his letter to Oprah), forgives completely, and his grace covers it all.

God's commitment device works because it's his commitment to us, not our commitment to him that matters. And because of that, we sleep guilt-free.

Campbell County rallies to defeat Fillies Monday 48-44

Doram joins 2,000 point club

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Fillies squandered a big lead and made a joyous occasion for senior Jordan Doram not as happy with a 48 to 44 loss to Campbell County Monday night.

Doram scored eight points in the first quarter to become the fifth of the Fillies to score 2,000 points in her career.

Noel Whitaker Kearns, Brooke Faulkner, Camryn Whitaker, Megan Gray McIlvain and Mary Custard-Austin are the five Fillies who have previously passed the lofty career mark.

Jerry Fogle is the only Thorobred to score 2,000 points in his career.

Doram and sophomore Madison Philpot each scored eight points in the first quarter. The Fillies were hitting on all cylinders, especially after freshman Taylor Reffett hit a three to open the driving lanes.

Meanwhile the Lady Camels were struggling with turnovers in the opening stanza and shooting poorly from the outside. In fact, the home team was so off kilter that Coach Barrett Bradshaw pulled several starters to begin the second period.

The Fillies helped make Bradshaw look like a genius as his reserves sparked a Campbell County rally that cut into the 15-point Harrison County lead reducing it to 23 to 20 by halftime.

Eighth grade guard Taylor Clos hit two big three pointers in the second half. Sophomore guard Taylor Jolly made one basket and harassed the Harrison County guards into multiple turnovers.

Both teams had six turnovers in the first quarter but Campbell County's reserve force cut theirs down to two in the second quarter while the Fillies had six more to commit 12 for the first half.

The Fillies out-rebounded the Lady Camels by 14 to six in the first half in order to stay in the lead.

The impressive play of the reserves was not lost on the Campbell County starters as they began to play much better in the second half especially on defense.

Doram scored seven of the 12 Fillies' points in the third period. The two teams battled to a draw for the period leaving Harrison County with a 35 to 32 lead heading into the last period.

Jolly remained in the game for Campbell County and continued to force turnovers as the Fillies committed five more for the third stanza.

The last quarter saw Campbell County begin to drive to the basket more as Doram, Philpot, Chelsea Ingram and Whitney Gray were all in foul trouble.

Ingram and Gray would eventually foul out at the end of the game when the Fillies had to foul hoping for Lady Camel's misses.

The driving action from sophomore guard Kylie Kramer and the outside shooting of Jolly and junior guard Carson Gray propelled the Lady Camels to a run of 15 to six during an eight-minute period spanning the third and fourth periods.

The score went from a 33 to 24 with a Harrison County advantage to tie at 39 with almost four minutes left in the game.

While the Lady Camel offense was improving, the Fillies continued to turn the ball over with nine more in the fourth period.

The Harrison County Thorobreds fell to 9-11 on the season Tuesday night as they dropped a fast-paced game 70-54 on the Hilltop.

The Thorobreds were playing without senior forward Dillon Pulliam who sprained his ankle in a shoot around earlier in the day.

Pulliam, according to Coach Larry Kendall, will miss Wednesday's game at Woodford County and could even miss the Friday homecoming battle with Pendleton County.

"Dillon's absence caused our rotation to be off tonight especially in the ball-handling department," noted Kendall. "We had to move Zack (Pulliam) up to start which had people in unfamiliar spots."

Harrison County battled the Blue Devils evenly for the first part of the game, matching scores with the 11th Region foe at 14 points each through the first four minutes.

The Blue Devils then went on a 13-point run to make the score 27-15 early in the second stanza.

Harrison County battled back but Henry Clay took a 14-point lead into the halftime break at 42-28.

The halftime stats had the Breds just a few under in rebounds at 16 to 12 and with only five turnovers to Henry Clay's three. Neither team was hitting their foul shots as the Breds were five of 11 at the half while Henry Clay was five of 10.

Harrison County battled back in the early minutes of the third period with junior guard D.J. Jenkins scoring seven points at the start of the period. The Thorobreds cut the Henry Clay lead back to single digits, but the highly rated Lexington five pushed the score back to 52-37 to end the quarter.

Harrison County continued its fight in the fourth quarter, but senior Jordan Green was too much for the Breds. Green and his sidekick, junior Jeremiah Tisdale, combined for 12 points in the final period to hold the Thorobreds at bay and send the Henry Clay squad home with a 70-54 win.

Coach Daniel Brown's Blue Devils improved their season record to 12-8 with the victory.

Green was the leading scorer for the game as he poured in 22 points to go along with seven rebounds.

Tisdale had 17 points and eight rebounds while junior Colby Barnes also grabbed seven rebounds for the game.

Henry Clay out-rebounded the Thorobreds by a 31-to-25 margin for the night.

Jenkins and fellow junior Trenton Thompson each scored 18 points to lead the Thorobreds. Thompson also garnered 11 rebounds for a double double.

LVC to organize co-ed basketball team

Right here in the middle of the cold-est winter in a long, long time, the college on the hill has put together a co-ed basketball opportunity for both the men and women students. The teams, called the Hilltop Blues, One and Two, will play a intramural schedule at the city hall gym in Cynthiana.

The two basketball teams, have been organized by Tracie Stamper, maintenance assistant, and Bruce Florence, LVC campus director. The first practice at City Hall is on Friday, Jan. 31, from 6 to 8 p.m. Games will be at City Hall on Friday, Feb. 7, and Friday, Feb.

21, from 6 to 8 p.m.

Stamper, coach and organizer, said, "I have always enjoyed playing sports and wanted to share my enthusiasm with the college community. I worked with Ms. Florence in starting a team for our students, faculty, and staff."

The families of the students and participating staff are welcome to attend as are any interested members of the community.

"The City Hall location is an excellent place for this type activity, and we are so grateful to all those who are responsible for providing such a desirable place for us," said Florence.

For more information on extra-curricular activities contact the Licking Valley Campus at 859-234-8626 extension 66400.

Mike's Minute

The Super Bowl, pleasant memories

The Super Bowl has always been a day of parties and good times for me and I am looking forward to another day of the same on Sunday.

I cannot remember each one year by year, but I do remember some important facts about the Super Bowls that have been played during my life time.

To begin with, the first Super Bowl was played the year that I graduated from Tell City High School. The 1967 battle between the Packers and Chiefs was played in the Los Angeles Coliseum and was easily won by the Packers 35-10.

The Packers won the 1968 version that was played in Miami over the Oakland Raiders 33-14 as the NFL dominated the first two games.

The third game, also played in the Orange Bowl, was the game that began to change the NFL into the juggernaut that it is today.

Joe Namath guaranteed a win and the Jets beat the heavily favored (Baltimore) Colts 16-7 and the work started on the league that we have today with the NFC and the AFC and only one National Football League.

winning total was on the day that our son Nathan was born; Jan. 14, 1973, when Miami beat Washington 14-7 in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The Pittsburgh Steelers and the Dallas Cowboys have appeared in the most Super Bowls with each of them appearing eight times. Pittsburgh has won six games to give the franchise, which began in 1933 as the Pittsburgh Pirates, the most Super Bowl wins.

The Pirates became the Steelers in 1940 and were not a powerhouse until much later.

Pittsburgh won the Super Bowl in 1975, 76, 79, 80, 2006 and 2009.

Other facts that may be of interest are the highest winning total in a game was in 1990 when San Francisco beat Denver in the Superdome 55 to 10.

The lowest winning total was on the day that our son Nathan was born; Jan. 14, 1973, when Miami beat Washington 14-7 in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Chuck Noll was the coach for the first four wins while Bill Cowher was the coach in 2006. The current coach, Mike Tomlin, had the reins in 2009.

There are many great moments that make up the pomp and circumstance of the game as well as some great football plays.

Whitney Houston's National Anthem performance stands out as one of the greatest, if not the greatest, non-football moment. Janet Jackson's wardrobe malfunction brought about more scrutiny for the performers, as well it should have. Lynn Swann's catch against the Cowboys stands out as a great football moment.

There are many moments to remember and I hope that this year's version will bring some more for all of us.

One thing that I want you to note in the article. I listed several of the playing venues as I wrote about the games. The only non-warm weather stadiums for the games were domed stadiums. I believe that the New Jersey venue is a big mistake by the NFL. I hope that the weather cooperates for the game, but why take the chance?

There has to be another way to repay whatever debt is owed the owners of the Giants and the Jets.

The preliminary games saw Harrison County's freshman team edge Henry Clay, 35-32, and the junior varsity Breds fall to Henry Clay, 44-35.

The Breds travel to Woodford County (11-10) Wednesday night to do battle with the Yellowjackets and their star guard Eli Boggess.

throws but the Fillies either threw the ball away or missed the shot in most cases rather than take advantage of the situation.

Even with all of the errors by Harrison County, the game was in the balance with six seconds to play and Doram on the foul line.

After Doram made the first of two shots Coach Kim Furnish called time out to set up a play.

After the conference, Doram missed her second shot. The Fillies did not scrap for the ball on the floor as designed by the play. Instead, after 8th grader McKinzie Schwarber took possession, they fouled her for the final four-point Campbell County win 48 to 44.

The win improves Campbell

County to 5-12 while the Fillies drop to 8-11.

Doram was the leading scorer for the night with 24 points and 14 rebounds. Philpot was also in double figures with 12 points.

Jolly led the way for Campbell County with 12 and Carson added 11 points.

The Fillies will next take to the hardwood on Friday night as they face district rival Pendleton County in the opener of the girl/boy double-header for Homecoming.

Brossart's Mustangs edge Thorobreds

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

A game that was in reach at the three minute mark got away from the Thorobreds Friday night as they dropped a hard-fought game to the 19-1 Bishop Brossart Mustangs, 60-49, in Alexandria.

The loss stopped the Breds four-game winning streak and left them with a 9-10 record for the season.

The evening started well for Harrison County as the freshman team won their game by a 15-point margin, 48-33. Brossart took the junior varsity, 40-32, in a game that was close throughout. The schools were even for the night heading into the varsity tussle.

Harrison County started slowly, which they have been doing of late, threw a couple of quick baskets by senior Grant Carr for an early Thorobreds lead.

The Mustangs took the lead at six to five and never trailed though Harrison County battled back from double digit deficits on more than one occasion.

Bishop Brossart's Mustangs lead by the end of the first quarter, 20-13, as they made nine of 10 from the field in the early going to take the seven point advantage.

"We started slowly as we were trying to press them since their point guard was out," said Coach Larry Kendall. "They were too smart and well disciplined and the press led to some easy baskets."

The two teams played to a draw in the second stanza as both teams scored 12 points.

Bishop Brossart did run out to a 12-point lead in the period but the Thorobreds fought back as they would on multiple times in the game.

The Mustangs led by a 32-to-25 margin at the half.

Senior Alex Trentman led the scoring for Bishop Brossart with 12 points at the half.

Trentman was to score his 1,000th point for his career during the fourth quarter, which was more important than just the two points.

The Thorobreds senior forward Dillon Pulliam had nine halftime points to lead the Thorobreds.

The third period saw the score stay around the seven-point spread for the Mustangs though they did extend the lead out to 12 a couple of times.

Each time Bishop Brossart would get the lead into double digits, Harrison County would rally and cut into the margin. Brossart did lead by 10 points at the end of the quarter, 48-38, in the midst of a Harrison County comeback.

The Breds continued the comeback in the fourth period cutting the score to 48 to 44 with three minutes left to play.

Again, Carr scored two baskets and Thompson scored a basket as the Breds scored six straight to pull within reach of the Mustangs.

However, that was when Trentman scored the basket to put him at 1,000 career points.

After the basket, Harrison County drove back down the floor, but missed a shot.

The game was stopped after the Bishop Brossart rebound and the crowd went wild celebrating the senior Trentman's achievement. The halt in play both inspired the Mustangs and apparently intimidated the Thorobreds somewhat. Bishop Brossart out-scored Harrison County 12 to five in the next two minutes to pull away 60-49 for the win.

Trentman was the game's leading scorer with 21 points and eight rebounds.

Fellow senior Drew Burns scored 16 points and was the game's leading rebounder with nine.

Dillon Pulliam led the Thorobreds with 15 points while Carr added 14. Thompson led the Thorobreds with eight boards despite sitting the entire second period with foul trouble.

Pulliam added seven rebounds and Carr brought down five from his guard position.

Response to Family History Book leads to new deadline

Response to the Harrison County Family History Book has been great with more than 40 family histories already received. The Harrison County Historical Society would like to thank all those who have responded so promptly to record their family's heritage in this historic book.
Many have expressed a need for more time to prepare their family histories, so the sponsor and publisher have agreed to extend the deadline for submissions to March 31, 2014.
Anyone needing help writing their history may contact Marilynn Bell, 234-2749, or Donald Wagoner.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on January 17, 2014 Kentucky Utilities Company ("KU") filed an application with the Public Service Commission, Frankfort, Kentucky for approval of revisions in its Demand-Side-Management and Energy-Efficiency ("DSM/EE") program portfolio, as shown in KU's Adjustment Clause Demand-Side Management Cost Recovery Mechanism ("DSMCRM") tariff and the resulting changes in its DSMCRM charges. In its application, KU notified the KPSC that the revised DSMCRM tariff sheets are proposed to become effective on and after February 16, 2014; however, because KU anticipates the Commission will suspend the proposed changes in the DSMCRM tariff to conduct an investigation of the proposed changes, KU has asked the Commission to approve the proposed changes in its DSM/EE program portfolio and resulting increases in the charges under the DSMCRM mechanism in its DSMCRM tariff to be effective on January 1, 2015.

The proposed changes to the DSM/EE program portfolio, if approved, will result in an increase in the charges calculated under the DSMCRM mechanism. The increase charges for all affected electric rate classes are as follows:

Residential Service Rate RS, Volunteer Fire Department Service Rate VFD, and Low Emission Vehicle Service Rate LEV
Current Charge per kWh	Proposed Charge per kWh	Difference per kWh	% Change
$ 0.00349	$ 0.00378	+ $ 0.00029	+ 8.3%

General Service Rate GS
Current Charge per kWh	Proposed Charge per kWh	Difference per kWh	% Change
$ 0.00238	$ 0.00222	- $ 0.00016	- 6.7%

All Electric School Rate AES
Current Charge per kWh	Proposed Charge per kWh	Difference per kWh	% Change
$ 0.00088	$ 0.00101	+ $ 0.00013	+ 14.7%

Power Service Rate PS, Time-of-Day Secondary Service Rate TODS, and Time-of-Day Primary Service Rate TODP
Current Charge per kWh	Proposed Charge per kWh	Difference per kWh	% Change
$ 0.00067	$ 0.00069	+ $ 0.00002	+ 3.0%

KU projects that the monthly bill impact of the new DSM/EE programs and program enhancements will be an increase of $0.29 per month for a KU residential electric customer using 1,000 kWh per month.

This tariff filing may be examined at the office of Kentucky Utilities Company, One Quality Street, Lexington, Kentucky, or on Kentucky Utilities Company's website at www.lge-ku.com.

This tariff filing may also be examined at the Commission's offices located at 211 Sower Boulevard, Frankfort, Kentucky, Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or through the Commission's website at http://psc.ky.gov.

Comments regarding this tariff filing may be submitted to the Public Service Commission through its website or by mail to Public Service Commission, Post Office Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602.

The proposed changes to the DSM/EE program portfolio and associated increase in the charges calculated under the DSMCRM mechanism contained in this notice are proposed by Kentucky Utilities Company. The Public Service Commission may order changes to KU's proposed DSM/EE program portfolio that may result in charges under the DSMCRM mechanism that differ from the proposed charges contained in this notice.

A person may submit a timely written request for intervention to the Public Service Commission, Post Office Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602, establishing the grounds for the request including the status and interest of the party. If the Commission does not receive a written request for intervention within thirty (30) days of the initial publication or mailing of the notice, the Commission may take final action on the tariff filing.
